

Spring Exodus Abroad Thins Society Ranks

Aquitania Sails With Heavy
Passenger List, and the Adriatic To-Day Is Taking
Many More to Europe

Sisters Brides on June 1

Millicent Horton To Be Wedded to W. A. Hafner, Miss
Dorothea to Emory Wales

All the steamships sailing for Europe in the last few days have been taking many members of society abroad. The Aquitania, which went out yesterday, had the largest passenger list of the spring and as many persons of prominence are leaving by the Adriatic to-day. Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fahrs have closed their house 777 Park Avenue and sail for England on the Adriatic. They will remain for the polo matches and on their return in July will go to Hilarie, their country place at Locust Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar L. Richard sail on the same vessel for France to pass the summer abroad, and others departing to-day are Mrs. Lewis Cass Ledyard, Mrs. L. S. McKee and her daughter, Miss Harriet McKee; Mr. and Mrs. John W. Talmage, Mrs. Arthur Ryle, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Suydam, Mrs. Walter E. Maynard, Miss M. E. Mayhew, the Vicomte de Suzannet, Dr. and Mrs. F. E. Du Bois, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Wyckoff and Mrs. Robert Wood Bliss, wife of the Second Assistant Secretary of State. Among those who sailed yesterday on the Aquitania were Mrs. William Watts Sherman, who will remain abroad throughout the summer, as guests of her son-in-law and daughter, Lord and Lady Camoys; Colonel and Mrs. Edward M. House, Mrs. Frederick W. Whitridge, Herman Oelrichs and Frederick H. Allen, of the Priority, Philadelphia, who will join Mrs. Allen, who has been in Paris for several months.

Mrs. Louis G. Kaufman, who was to have sailed yesterday, has postponed her departure at the last minute. A double wedding will take place at the Hotel Gotham on June 1, when the sisters, Miss Millicent Horton and Miss Dorothea Mae Horton, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Horton, of 314 West Seventy-fifth Street, will become brides at 3 o'clock in the evening. Miss Millicent Horton will be married to Walter Alfred Hafner, and Miss Dorothea to Emory Wales. The former will be attended by Miss Beulah Pack, of Lakewood; Miss Florence Griffin, of Syracuse; Miss Hope Robertson, of Brooklyn; Miss Marion Ratkin, of Montclair, N. J.; and Miss Alice Harter, of New York. The bridesmaids will be Miss Kathleen Kitching, of Brooklyn; Miss Evelyn Horton, a sister; Miss Winifred Wrigley, Miss Jean Kingley, and Miss Margaret Lindvall. Roger Wales will serve as his brother's best man and the ushers will be Homer Conroy, Hugh F. Horton.

Mrs. Belmont Tiffany is booked to sail for Italy on May 18 to pass the greater part of the summer abroad.

Mrs. Hamilton Fish gave a dinner last night at the Ritz-Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brown have closed their apartment in the Hotel St. Regis and have gone to the Piping Rock Club, Locust Valley, Long Island, for the summer.

Mrs. William Alexander has returned to the city from Garden City, Long Island, and is at the Hotel St. Regis.

Mrs. Hamilton McK. Twombly has closed her house, 684 Fifth Avenue, and has gone to her country place at Convent, N. J. Later she and her daughter, Miss Ruth V. Twombly, will sail for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Osborn have gone to their country house, at Garrison, N. Y., for the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould will take possession of their country place at Ardsley, N. Y., on May 15.

Mr. and Mrs. William Stuart Forbes have arrived in the city from Boston and are at the Hotel Plaza.

Mr. and Mrs. David T. Dana are in town for a few days from Lenox and are staying at the Hotel Belmont.

Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Van Bell Berg, of 129 East Eighty-second Street, are being congratulated on the birth of a daughter a few days ago. Mrs. Van Bell Berg was Miss Elizabeth Henderson Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Richard are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son at their home, 540 Park Avenue. Mrs. Richard was Miss Vera Buren.

Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge Honored at Reception

Official Washington Attends Large Function Given by the Speaker and Mrs. Gillett

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, May 3.—The Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge were guests of the Speaker and Mrs. Frederick H. Gillett at a reception at the White House to-night. To it were invited the members of the Cabinet, the diplomatic corps, Supreme Court and both houses of Congress and others. Both ballrooms were used, the colorful decoration of flags put up for the polo ball last night sufficing to lend brilliancy to the event. The Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge stood with the Speaker and Mrs. Gillett in receiving. There was an orchestral program for the reception and another for the dance which followed.

The Ambassador of Great Britain and Lady Geddes, who had arranged to go to Canada for a visit and were to be guests at Government House, Ottawa, canceled the engagement to be present at the Gillett reception and to meet several other important social events.

The Minister of Foreign Affairs of Venezuela and Mme. Gil-Borges entertained at dinner to-night at the Shoreham, the Under Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry P. Fletcher and other State Department officials, Latin-American diplomats and members of the Venezuelan mission being of the company. Mrs. Richard H. Townsend entertained guests at dinner to-night, later taking them to the reception in honor of the Vice-President and Mrs. Coolidge.

Mrs. Harriet Blaine Beale has returned to her apartment at the Connecticut, after spending some months in New York.

Coolidge and Wife to Visit Coast Within Three Weeks

From The Tribune's Washington Bureau
WASHINGTON, May 3.—While President Harding was unable to set a definite date he would make a trip to the coast soon, the Vice-President informed the Cabinet at the meeting to-day that he was planning to visit the coast within the next three weeks. It was stated at the Vice-President's office, however, that of going to the coast plans thus far were tentative. He is not going at the request of any organization or society, but will take the trip, accompanied by his wife, for relaxation and sightseeing. In all probability he will deliver a few speeches while on the coast, but as yet nothing definite is known concerning that phase of his trip.

Hylan Sends Letter to Chicago
Mayor on First Trade Plane

Mayor Hylan yesterday sent a letter to Mayor William Hale Thompson of Chicago by the first commercial airplane to fly from Hazelhurst Field, Long Island, to that city. The letter read:

"Dear Mr. Mayor: I send you via the first of the regular line of commercial airplanes to fly between New York and Chicago a message of greeting and I say it with flowers. These are Rowan roses, the finest of their type, and are grown in this city. Are they not suggestive of New York's prominence in more than mere commercial enterprise?"

Employer Held Liable if Foreman Strikes Worker

Court of Appeals, 4 to 3, Upholds Compensation Award for Loss of Eye

The Court of Appeals has decided by a vote of four to three, that if a foreman assaults and injures a subordinate, his employer is liable under the Workmen's Compensation Law. The decision was made in the case of William G. Knocks, an oiler, seeking compensation for the loss of an eye, against the Metal Packing Corporation.

The foreman of the Metal Packing Corporation on June 11, 1919, found that a machine was running defectively because too much oil was supplied to it. He sent for Knocks and told him he was responsible.

"You're a liar," retorted Knocks. The foreman retaliated by striking Knocks on the eye and jaw and then throwing him down a flight of stairs. Knocks's eyeglasses were broken by the blow and some of the fragments lacerated the cornea, and as a result he suffered a complete loss of vision of that eye.

The Industrial Commission of the State Department of Labor made an award to Knocks, finding that the injuries sustained by him were accidental injuries, arising out of and in the course of his employment and that he was not the aggressor. The Appellate Division, third Department, reversed the decision of the commission, dismissing the claim on the ground that the workman provoked the assault by calling the foreman a liar.

To Honor Poet War Hero

A memorial tree will be planted in Washington Square on May 16 in honor of Alan Seeger, the young American poet, who was killed in action while serving with the French Foreign Legion during the World War. The Writers' Club will conduct the service.

Seeger was born in New York in 1893 and was educated at Horace Mann School and Harvard University. In 1913 he went to France to live and immediately after the war began he enlisted in the Foreign Legion, fighting through some of the greatest battles of the war. He was killed at Bellefontaine-Santerre, on July 4, 1916.

Widow of "Buffalo Bill"
Seriously Ill in Wyoming

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE TRIBUNE
DENVER, May 3.—Louisa M. Cody, widow of Colonel William F. Cody, "Buffalo Bill," is dangerously ill at her home in Cody, Wyo., according to a telegram received to-day by Johnny Baker, Cody's foster-son. Baker left Denver this evening for Cody.

"I received a letter from Mrs. Cody last evening informing me that she was ill of bronchial pneumonia," said Mr. Baker this afternoon. "The illness was not severe, according to the letter, but I presume complications have set in. Mrs. Cody is past seventy-five years old."

Three grandchildren are the only relatives at Mrs. Cody's bedside, according to Mr. Baker. All of her children died.

Tunnel Compromise Sought
New York and New Jersey Commissioners Confer

Commissioner E. W. Bloomingdale and State Engineer Frank M. Williams, of the New York Bridge and Tunnel Commission, held a conference yesterday with Commissioners Adams, Boettger and Richards, of the New Jersey commission, in an effort to straighten out the differences between the two bodies with regard to the expense of widening streets in Jersey City for approaches to the new tunnel, construction of which was begun in Manhattan October 12.

Attorney General Charles D. Newton is to be asked to compose the difficulties between the two commissions as to street widening expenses, in which the New Jersey commission holds New York should share. If the Attorney General holds that the New York commission may legally sanction spending of money for street widening in Jersey City, it is said ground will be broken for construction on the Jersey shore within three weeks.

Moccasins Await Harding
Girls Prepare Loom; Need Only
President's Shoe Size

Doris and Edith Brown, Camp Fire Girls, living at 3130 Bailey Avenue, Kingsbridge, N. Y., want to send President Harding a pair of beaded moccasins, and have written to the White House asking the President's size.

Yesterday afternoon at the girls' home Edith, thirteen years old, said that they had received no answer to the letter as yet, but they expected to hear from either the President or his secretary.

She displayed a loom and a variety of colored beads that were to be used in the making of the moccasins.

"All we need now is an answer from the White House telling us the size of the President's feet and the moccasins will soon be ready," said Edith.

Dormitory Displaces Dungeon At Women's Police Station

No Lock or Key, but Sympathetic Care for Runaway Girls, Rule at Cheerful Quarters Evolved by Feminine Hands Out of Condemned-Building

Red geraniums in the window-boxes and a canary singing in a blue cage by the lieutenant's desk set the pace for the new Women's Police Precinct station, which opened yesterday at 434 West Thirty-seventh Street.

This is the headquarters for all the feminine activities of the Police Department, from the training school for patrolmen to the club of patrolmen's widows. It handles no cases of women criminals; those who pictured crooks to be disposed of by women lieutenants were disappointed when the program of the Women's Precinct was explained. The only connection of the precinct with the practical working of the Police Department will be in the detention of runaway girls.

No women pickpockets will ever sit on the chintz cushions and tell their stories to Mrs. Mary Hamilton, director of the precinct, but foolish youngsters who have come to the city to picture stars may sob out their troubles on her blue and yellow cushions.

Sympathetic to Runaway Girls
"We do not believe that the runaway girl is a criminal and an object to her being placed under arrest and detained with hardened offenders," said Mrs. Hamilton. "Personally, I sympathize with the runaway; I know she must have had great trouble at home and great moral courage to take such a step. I believe in getting at the heart of her trouble and remedying it. Most of the runaways come from Boston—I don't know why."

"We shall have agents at the railroad terminals to meet runaway girls about whom we have had warnings from the police of the home towns, and these agents shall not place the truants under arrest unless they are obstinate. They can have their choice of coming with us quietly or of being arrested."

Once in our precinct they will be settled in our comfortable, sunny dormitory. Without lock or key to await the report of our investigators or the arrival of their parents."

The women's station, shining with white paint and gay chintzes, brought many a gasp of astonishment from the veterans of the force who were invited to the opening reception. This was the building which was condemned two years ago because of the rats which disturbed the slumbers of the patrolmen off duty.

"What's become of the rats?" one of the visitors whispered to Mrs. Hamilton.

"It takes a woman to put a house in order," she retorted. "All we did to get rid of the rats was to clean out the cellar and plug up the holes. Then we have two lovely cats who will help."

Dark Cells Tell of Old Methods
The cats were not on exhibition yesterday, but everything in the house was open to visitors, from the horrible, dark cells, where women under arrest were to be placed, to the spotless sunny dormitory of the girls in the basement, which is under the direction of Health Commissioner Copeland.

Mayor Hylan and Commissioner Copeland attended the opening ceremonies, standing behind the lieutenant's desk, a bower of pink roses and flags.

"I am proud," said Mayor Hylan, "to see any woman here, proving their interest in the affairs of the police department. When I was a judge in Brooklyn I used to be concerned over the unsympathetic attitude of the men police, standing behind the runaway girls. I resolved to do whatever I could if the opportunity ever arose to secure more kindly treatment for such cases."

KINGSTON, N. Y., May 3.—Efforts to acquire and preserve the homes and birthplace of the naturalist, John Burroughs, the poet-naturalist, culminated to-day in a certificate of incorporation of the John Burroughs Association, which is being held in the Ulster County Clerk's office here by Judge A. T. Clearwater, one of the directors, who is also counsel for the Burroughs estate.

Among the incorporators and directors are Mrs. Thomas A. Edison, Hamilton Garland, Mrs. Henry Ford, Kermit Roosevelt, Robert Underwood Johnson, and Mrs. J. Shepard and Harvey S. Firestone.

Lyons Calls Rumors of His Resignation "Pipe Dreams"

From a Staff Correspondent
ALBANY, May 3.—Secretary of State John C. Lyons, who has been described as "pipe dreamer" reports that he would resign his office and either take a Federal position or become a candidate for mayor of New York City on the "Buckeye" ticket.

"There is nothing in this talk that I plan to resign," said Mr. Lyons, who returned to Albany this afternoon after an absence of several days. "The fact I was in Washington was not due to any desire on my part to get a Federal job as the reports have it. My visit there was solely a personal matter."

Dr. William Brooks, "The Comet Finder," Dies in 77th Year

Hobart Professor, Famous for Years as Astronomer, Widely Honored, Gave
Scientific Lecture at 18

GENEVA, N. Y., May 3.—Dr. William B. Brooks, professor of astronomy at Hobart College since 1900, and recognized as the discoverer of more comets than any living astronomer, died at his home here to-night. He was born at Maidstone, Kent, England, in 1844.

"The Comet-Finder" was the title long popularly bestowed upon William Brooks, because of the extraordinary number of those erratic bodies which he discovered. He was credited with finding no fewer than twenty-seven new comets, in recognition of which achievements he received more than a dozen medals from learned societies in all parts of the world.

Although generally regarded as an American scientist, he was born in England, at Maidstone on June 11, 1844, a son of the Rev. William and Sarah W. Brooks. He was educated in local schools until his thirteenth year, when the family removed to this country and settled at Darien, N. Y. Then he completed his academic education in a school at Marion, N. Y.

In 1862, when only eighteen years old, he delivered in his father's church a popular scientific lecture, which he illustrated with home-made lanterns. At this time he also gave much attention to natural philosophy and mechanics.

Worked in Iron Foundry
For three years he was employed in iron works at Buffalo, making steam engines and heavy machinery. There he perfected himself in mechanical draftsmanship, an art which he thereafter practiced for some time as an expert at Syracuse, Providence, Worcester, Mass., and Boston. In 1868 he married Miss Mary E. Smith, of Edwardsburg, Mich., and settled down at Phelps, N. Y., as the village photographer.

Studied Solar Phenomena
In addition to discovering comets—which was, in fact, merely an incidental avocation—he was a diligent and profitable student of solar and planetary phenomena, and gave much attention to transit work for the determination of time, and the study of solar and spectroscopic observations. He was engaged in celestial photography to a considerable extent.

Generous recognition of his achievements came to him with gratifying promptness. In 1887 he was elected a fellow of the Royal Astronomical Society of Great Britain, and of the Liverpool Astronomical Society. In 1890 he was elected a member of the British Astronomical Association, and for many years he was a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. Hobart College, where he was master of arts in 1891, and Hamilton College, where he was a doctor of science in 1898.

He won more than $1,000 in Warner gold prizes for astronomical research, and received medals from the Astronomical Society of the Pacific for his discoveries of comets, the Lalande medal of the Paris Academy of Sciences, a special gold medal at the Exposition of 1904 for his list and photographs of cometary discoveries, and a special gold medal and diploma from the Astronomical Society of Mexico upon his discovery of his twenty-fifth comet.

Frank Howard Davis
Is Dead at Age of 62

Director and Officer in Many Railroad and Industrial Corporations

ELIZABETH, N. J., May 3.—Frank Howard Davis, father of Pierpont Davis, vice-president of the National City Company, director and officer in many railroad companies and industrial corporations, died early to-day at his home, 861 North Broadway, at Elizabeth, N. J. His wife, who was Miss Mary Halsey Davis, and three sons, Pierpont, Howard C. and Everett D. Davis.

Mr. Davis was born in Brooklyn, August 18, 1858. He began his business career in 1880 when he entered the service of the Southern Pacific Company, in the office of Collis P. Huntington. Later Mr. Davis took charge of the company's financial work.

Mr. Davis, with the late Edwin Hawley, founded the brokerage firm of Hawley & Davis, which was vice-president and director of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad and the Hudson Valley Railroad; treasurer and director of the Minneapolis, Kansas & Texas, the St. Louis & North Western, the St. Paul & Shawmut Railroads; the Western Power Corporation, the Standard Safe Deposit Company and the Newport News Shipbuilding & Drydock Company.

HENRY C. MURRAY
Henry C. Murray, seventy-four years old, who at the time of his retirement several years ago was the oldest member of the New York Central Railroad, died yesterday in St. Francis Hospital after an illness of several months. His residence was at Spencertown, N. Y.

Mr. Murray is survived by a son, Herbert Murray, and by two daughters, Mrs. Lottie Van Alstin and Mrs. Lucinda Schaffer.

Funeral services will be held at the residence of Mrs. Van Alstin on Friday evening.

MRS. MARY WOODWARD HULBERT
GROTON, Conn., May 3.—Mrs. Mary Woodward Hulbert, widow of the Rev. O. B. Hulbert, for many years president of Middlebury College, died at the home of her son here yesterday, in her eighty-ninth year.

CHARLES EDWIN BENNETT
Charles Edwin Bennett, philologist, author and professor of Latin at Cornell University, died suddenly of heart disease Monday. He is survived by his wife, Katherine, a sister and four children. The funeral will be from Sage Chapel, Ithaca, N. Y.

Professor Bennett was well known in this country as a Latin scholar, translator and teacher. He had taught in Brown University, University of Wisconsin at University of Nebraska. He was president of the American Philological Association during 1907 and 1908. Among his chief works are: "New Latin Grammar," "Latin Composition, Quantitative Reading of Latin Poetry," "Syntax of Early Latin and Horace's Odes and Epodes."
